Conflict and Upheaval unit – quick fire revision quiz! The Hundred Years War

| Question   | Answer  | Correct1 st go? | Correct2 nd go? | Correct3 rd go? |
|--|---|--------------------------------|--------------------------------|--------------------------------|
| What land did England control in France?                                 | Gascony, in Aquitaine   |                                |                                |                                |
| What were English kings expected to 'pay' to French kings?               | Homage  |                                |                                |                                |
| What is paying homage?   | It means 'to pay respect to'  |                                |                                |                                |
| Where did England hold a lot of influence over trade?                    | Flanders  |                                |                                |                                |
| What was the 'auld alliance'?  | An alliance / agreement ofsupport between France andScotland, England's traditionalenemies. |                                |                                |                                |
| Who did the French support to becomeKing of Scotland?                | David Bruce (David II)  |                                |                                |                                |
| Who did the English support to becomeKing of Scotland?               | Edward Balliol  |                                |                                |                                |
| Which law was used in 1328 to stopEdward III becoming King of France | Salic Law   |                                |                                |                                |
| How was Edward III connected to theFrench royal family?              | Mother = Eleanor ofAquitaine. Her father wasKing of France.                                     |                                |                                |                                |
| Who did the Great Council of the Nobility                                | Philip Count of Valois (he  |                                |                                |                                |
| choose to become King of France in 1328?                                 | became Philip VI)   |                                |                                |                                |
| When did the French assemble a large                                     | 1336  |                                |                                |                                |
| naval fleet near the Normandy coast?                                     |   |                                |                                |                                |
| Who claimed exile in France in the 1334?                                 | King David II of Scotland   |                                |                                |                                |
| What land did the French attempt to confiscate?                          | Aquitaine   |                                |                                |                                |
| Who did Edward III offer refuge to in 1336?                              | Robert, Count of Artois (an enemy of Philip VI)   |                                |                                |                                |
| When did Edward III formally claim the title 'King of France'?           | 1340  |                                |                                |                                |
| Who did Edward III make alliances with?                                  | Holy Roman Emperor, Louis IVTowns in Flanders – Ghent,Bruges, Ypres                             |                                |                                |                                |
| Who was Edward, the Black Prince?  | Son of Edward III   |                                |                                |                                |
| When did the Battle of Sluys happen?                                     | 1340, June  |                                |                                |                                |
| What weapon was used in Sluys thatoverwhelmed the French?            | Longbow   |                                |                                |                                |
| What was a chevauchee?   | Method of warfare that raidedvillages to weaken morale andresources of the enemy                |                                |                                |                                |
| Who led chevauchees?   | Edward IIIEdward, the Black Prince  |                                |                                |                                |
| When were chevauchees used?  | Prior to Battle of Crecy, 1346Mid 1350sPrior to Battle of Poitiers,1355                     |                                |                                |                                |

| 1346. July                   |  |  |  |
|------------------------------|--|--|--|
|                              |  |  |  |
|                              |  |  |  |
|                              |  |  |  |
|                              |  |  |  |
| John of Bonenna              |  |  |  |
| Significant English success  |  |  |  |
|                              |  |  |  |
| Attempt to starve out a town |  |  |  |
| •                            |  |  |  |
| 1                            |  |  |  |
|                              |  |  |  |
|                              |  |  |  |
|                              |  |  |  |
| -                            |  |  |  |
| 1347                         |  |  |  |
| Black Death                  |  |  |  |
|                              |  |  |  |
| 1350. King John              |  |  |  |
|                              |  |  |  |
| Led a chevauchee through the |  |  |  |
| -                     |  |  |  |
|                              |  |  |  |
| -                            |  |  |  |
|                              |  |  |  |
| nobles killed.               |  |  |  |
|                              |  |  |  |
|                              |  |  |  |
| -                            |  |  |  |
| ,                            |  |  |  |
| war                          |  |  |  |
| Lack of leadership           |  |  |  |
|                              |  |  |  |
| France                       |  |  |  |
|                              |  |  |  |
| homage                       |  |  |  |
| Edward renounced his claim   |  |  |  |
| to the French throne         |  |  |  |
| King John ransomed for 3     |  |  |  |
| million gold coins           |  |  |  |
|                              |  |  |  |
| ,Returned to England     |  |  |  |
| Died in prison, 1364         |  |  |  |
|                              | 1350, King JohnLed a chevauchee through thesouth of France1356, SeptEnglish victory. King Johncaptured and several Frenchnobles killed.Treaty of BretignyNo moneyInternal rebellion – instabilityLack of popular support forwarLack of leadershipEnglish granted land in SWFranceEnglish no longer had to payhomageEdward renounced his claimto the French throneKing John ransomed for 3million gold coinsUnable to raise ransom moneyReturned to England | Edward IIIEdward, the Black PrinceEarl of NorthamptonJohn of BohemiaSignificant English successAttempt to starve out a townor citySept 1346 – August 1347English victory – the townsurrendered to Edward inAugust 1347August 13471347Black Death1350, King JohnLed a chevauchee through thesouth of France1356, SeptEnglish victory. King Johncaptured and several Frenchnobles killed.Treaty of BretignyNo moneyInternal rebellion – instabilityLack of popular support forwarLack of leadershipEnglish no longer had to payhomageEdward renounced his claimto the French throneKing John ransomed for 3million gold coinsUnable to raise ransom moneyReturned to England | Edward IIIEdward, the Black PrinceEarl of NorthamptonJohn of BohemiaJohn of BohemiaSignificant English successAttempt to starve out a townor citySept 1346 – August 1347English victory – the townsurrendered to Edward inAugust 1347Sept 13471347Black DeathSept 1346 – August 13471350, King JohnSept 1346 – August 1347Sept 13471347Sept 1347Sept 1347Black DeathSept 1346 – August 1347Sept 13471350, King JohnSept 1346 – Sept 1356, SeptSept 1356Led a chevauchee through thesouth of FranceSept 1356, Sept 13566, Sept 13566, Sept 13566, Sept 13566, Sept 13566, Sept 13566, |