

Causes of the Hundred Years' War

Long term causes – issues that had been building tension between England and France for a long time...

English land in France caused tension over a long period of time	The growth of national spirit added to tensions between the 2 countries	Auld Alliance between Scotland and France increased tensions between France and England	Succession crisis in France began to bring tensions to a boiling point
This added to the possibility of war because...	This added to the possibility of war because...	This added to the possibility of war because...	This added to the possibility of war because...

Date	What happened?	This contributed to war because...
1294 / 1324
1328
After 1330
1334
1336
1337
1340

Key events of the Hundred Years' War

Battle	Date	People involved	Events	Outcome
Crecy
Calais (siege)
Poitiers

Treaty of Bretigny, 1360